

6 letters that do not allow any letter to join with them from the left.

There are 6 letters they do not join to any letter after them (in other words, to the left of them). However, they do allow other normal letters to join them from the right.

A normal letter written after these above letters cannot take the middle form. It will take the beginning form instead, unless it is the last letter of a word, in which case it will take the 'isolated' form.